Following PHM's 1Q conference call, we provide our key takeaways below (pre-call bullets in the body of this note). Overall, 2026 guidance was reiterated across all metrics, although gross margins are now expected to be "likely towards the lower end" of its 24.5-25.0% range, with 2Q expected to be the trough for the year. Specifically, following 1Q's 24.4% (24.6% ex-impairments) coming in slightly below guidance of 24.5-25.0%, 2Q gross margins are expected at 24.1-24.4% (prior JPMe: 24.6%) - slightly below 1Q due to the full impact of its selling of finished specs (which began in 1Q) - while PHM expects 2H gross margins to be stronger than 1H (and 2Q to be the trough for the year), driven by a greater mix of higher-margin active adult and build-to-order homes. Moreover, 1Q's incentive levels (10.9% of ASP) are expected to hold for the rest of the year. Regarding demand, 1Q orders grew 3% YOY, nearly in-line with our 4%E. PHM noted that 1Q demand trends were consistent with a typical Spring selling season, which has continued so far in April. We slightly lower our 2026E and 2027E Operating EPS to $10.08 and $11.79, respectively, from $10.16 and $11.87, following 1Q26 results and the reiteration of 2026 guidance. As a result, we also slightly reduce our Dec. 2026 price target to $130 from $131, which remains based on a target multiple of roughly 11x our 2027E EPS. Lastly, we maintain our relative Overweight rating for PHM, as we continue to view the stock's valuation – trading at roughly 12.7x and 10.8x our 2026E and 2027E Op. EPS, respectively, and 1.9x P/B – as attractive relative to its peers and not reflective of our outlook for industry-leading gross margins and ROE (ex-NVR) in 2026-27; in particular, we note that DHI currently trades at roughly 15x our FY26E EPS and 2.0x P/B alongside our FY26E ROE of 12.7%, which compares to our 2026E ROE for PHM of 14.4%.

- 2026 guidance reiterated across all metrics, although gross margins now expected to be "likely towards the lower end" of its 24.5-25.0% range, with 2Q expected to be the trough for the year. Following 1Q26 closings of 6.1K being at the high end of its 5.7-6.1K guidance range, PHM reiterated its full year closings outlook of 28.5-29.0K (down 2-4% YOY; prior JPMe: -3%), with average community count still expected to grow 3-5% YOY for each of the year's remaining three quarters (1Q: 9%). Closing ASPs were reiterated at $550-560K (down 1-3% YOY; prior JPMe: -2%), up from 1Q's $542K and 2Q guidance of $540-550K, driven by a higher mix of build-to-order closings expected in 2H26. Gross margins for 2026 – following 1Q's 24.4% (24.6% ex-impairments) coming in slightly below guidance of 24.5-25.0% – were reiterated at 24.5-25.0% (prior JPMe: 24.6%), though the company now expects to more likely achieve the lower end of the range. Notably, with 2Q gross margins expected at 24.1-24.4% (prior JPMe: 24.6%) - slightly below 1Q due to the full impact of its selling of finished specs (which began in 1Q) - PHM expects 2H gross margins to be stronger than 1H (and 2Q to be the trough for the year), driven by a greater mix of higher-margin active adult and build-to-order homes (BTO was 43% of 1Q orders vs. 40% in 1Q25 and is expected to increase throughout 2026) and less finished spec closings. Moreover, 1Q's incentive levels (10.9% of ASP) are expected to hold for the rest of the year, while construction costs in 2026 are still expected to be flat to slightly down (1Q fell 5% YOY to $75/sf, led by lumber as well as other products and services). SG&A was reiterated at 9.5-9.7% (prior JPMe: 9.7%), while land spend and operating cash flow are still expected at $5.4B and $1.0B, respectively. We also note that during 1Q PHM repurchased 2.4M shares for $308M. Additionally for 2Q26, PHM expects closings of 6.7-7.1K (down 7-12% YOY; prior JPMe: -1%) and ASPs of $540-550K (down 2-3% YOY; prior JPMe: -1%).

- 1Q26 orders rose 3% YOY, roughly in-line with our 4%E; demand so far in April has remained in-line with typical seasonal trends. By component, absorption (sales pace) fell 5%, below our flat estimate, while average community count increased 9%, above our 4%E and guidance of 3-5%. On demand, PHM noted that 1Q trends were consistent with a typical Spring selling season, with orders increasing sequentially each month; of note, however, 1Q's 22% sequential improvement in sales pace was below the company's prior 5-year average of 40% and long-term average of 42%, as well as below 1Q25's 26%, which we believe suggests a solid but somewhat more moderate Spring selling season so far. Positively, 1Q's cancellation rate of 12.1% fell 350 bps sequentially and 50 bps YOY. On pricing, 1Q incentives were 10.9% of closing ASP - up 100 bps sequentially and 290 bps YOY - and were noted as being relatively steady during the quarter. By buyer segment, order growth was led by active adult up 14%, while move-up rose 3% and first-time fell 1%. By region, order growth was led by Florida, up 18%, while the Northeast and the Southeast rose 9% and 5%, respectively; by contrast, the Midwest, West and Texas fell 7%, 3% and 2%, respectively. Broadly, PHM noted that demand "generally remains positive" across the Northeast, Southeast and Florida - with the state seeing orders increase in every market along with gradual improvement across new and existing home inventory - while the Midwest was more variable (possibly due to the more extreme winter weather). Texas and the West remained softer, while CA and WA still have "work to do" to clear finished spec inventory. Looking forward, PHM noted that April demand conditions have remained consistent with typical seasonal patterns. Hence, we estimate 2Q26 orders up 1% YOY, driven by a sales pace decline of 3% (down 10% sequentially, in-line with the prior 5-year average and vs. its long-term average of down 5%) and average community count up 5% (at the high end of guidance of 3-5%).

- We slightly lower our 2026-27E EPS and our Dec. 2026 price target but maintain our relative Overweight rating. We slightly lower our 2026E and 2027E Operating EPS to $10.08 and $11.79, respectively, from $10.16 and $11.87, following 1Q26 results and the reiteration of 2026 guidance. Pre-Conference Call Note

1Q Op. EPS Nearly In-Line w/Our Est., St.; Orders Roughly In-Line w/Our Est. – ALERT

OUR TAKE: We expect a neutral to slightly negative reaction by the stock today, as 1Q Op. EPS was nearly in-line with our estimate and the Street, while gross margins were also slightly below guidance, in contrast to some builders posting upside in this metric so far this earnings season. Positively, however, 1Q orders were roughly in-line with our estimate, in contrast to other builders posting downside.

RESULTS SUMMARY: PHM reported 1Q Operating EPS of $1.79, slightly below our $1.83E and the Street's $1.81. Downside to our estimate was driven by lower financial services income, representing $0.07/share, while slightly lower gross margins (24.4% vs. our 24.6%E and guidance of 24.5-25.0%) contributed $0.02/share. Partially offsetting these were a lower tax rate and higher homebuilding revenues (-12% vs. our -13%E YOY), contributing $0.04 and $0.02/share, respectively. Also, 1Q orders rose 3%, roughly in-line with our 4%E. Lastly, PHM repurchased 2.4 million shares for $308 million during 1Q.

- Orders rose 3% YOY, roughly in-line with our 4%E. By component, absorption (sales pace) fell 5%, below our flat estimate, while average community count increased 9%, well above our 4%E (guidance of 3-5%). By region, Florida rose 18%, while the Northeast and Southeast grew 9% and 5%, respectively. By contrast, Texas and the West fell 2% and 3%, respectively, while the Midwest fell 7%. Lastly, order ASPs were up 4% sequentially.
- Operating margins (ex-charges) of 13.1% were roughly in-line with our 13.2%E. Gross margins of 24.4%, down 30 bps sequentially and 310 bps YOY, were slightly below our 24.6%E and below the low-end of guidance of 24.5-25.0%. SG&A (ex-charges) of 11.5%, in-line with our estimate, was up 200 bps seq. and 100 bps YOY. As a result, operating margins (ex-charges) of 13.1% were slightly below our 13.2%E, up 10 bps sequentially but down 410 bps YOY.

Investment Thesis, Valuation and Risks

PulteGroup Inc. (Overweight; Price Target: $130.00)

Investment Thesis

We maintain our relative Overweight rating for PHM, as we continue to view the stock's valuation – trading at roughly 12.7x and 10.8x our 2026E and 2027E Op. EPS, respectively, and 1.9x P/B – as attractive relative to its peers and not reflective of our outlook for industry-leading gross margins and ROE (ex-NVR) in 2026-27; in particular, we note that DHI currently trades at roughly 15x our FY26E EPS and 2.0x P/B alongside our FY26E ROE of 12.7%, which compares to our 2026E ROE for PHM of 14.4%. Lastly, we note that PHM features one of the stronger balance sheets among its peers, with debt/capital and net debt/capital ratios of 12% and ~0%, respectively, which we believe can support a higher level of share buyback over the next two years.

Valuation

We slightly reduce our Dec. 2026 price target to $130 from $131, which remains based on an 11x target multiple against our 2027E EPS. We view our target multiple, modestly below where the stock is trading against our 2026E EPS and modestly above the higher end of the larger-caps' historical mid-cycle 9-10x range, as reasonably reflecting our outlook for the company to continue to generate above average gross margins, operating margins and ROE. More broadly, our average target multiple for the sector is towards the high end of the group's historical range of 8-10x, which reflects our market view and fundamental outlook for the builders. Specifically, we anticipate a less supportive demand/supply backdrop continuing 2026, featuring several key demand drivers not likely improving as well as supply being less supportive of the housing market, while our fundamental outlook for the builders features margin and ROE contraction in 2026 as well as our view that more downside risk exists than upside risk for builders' sales pace and gross margins over the next 1-2 years. However, at the same time, we anticipate that by 2026-end, investors will likely be more willing to assign a slightly higher multiple to builders which continue to employ more land light, ROE-oriented business models alongside four years of margin and ROE contraction.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

We believe the following three factors present downside risks to our Overweight rating and price target for PHM: 1) weaker than expected order growth; 2) lower than expected gross margins due to greater than expected cost inflation; 3) lesser than expected capital returns to shareholders.

J.P. Morgan ratings or designations: OW = Overweight, N= Neutral, UW = Underweight, NR = Not Rated

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:
J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com.
